Editorial
Dear Colleagues,
It gives me great pleasure to present the third issue of the IJ-ELTS. The October-December 2013 issue of the IJ-ELTS includes the scholarly articles on various aspects of English including ELT, Literature, Linguistics and Translation Studies. The IJ-ELTS is a peer-reviewed and indexed journal of English Language and Translation studies and this is reflected in this issue not only though the topics covered in this issue but also in the countries and continents represented. The Vol: 1, Issue: 3 of the IJ-ELTS includes the articles of the research scholars from the countries such as Brazil, Canada, Iran, Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, Lesotho, Libya, Palestine, Slovakia, Turkey, Tunisia, United States of America and Yemen. Such diversity of the research scholars from the globe has helped us in reflecting the truly International nature of the IJ-ELTS.
Keeping its track of progress, the IJ-ELTS has also gained a very significant recognition internationally. To this date, the IJ-ELTS is indexed and abstracted in more than 100 renowned databases, research centers and reputed libraries across the globe. This has helped us in achieving our aims of 1) providing the international platform for the research scholars so that their research work gets noticed and appreciated and 2) making the quality research works available for the world community of knowledge-seekers so that their needs are fulfilled. By reaching to almost every corner of the world, the IJ-ELTS is contributing its part in disseminating and spreading the quality research works for the academic and research community around the globe.
I also take this opportunity to thank our esteemed contributors for selecting the IJ-ELTS, our reviewers for reviewing the selected articles for this issue and board of editors for their contribution in helping the IJ-ELTS achieve this place.
Due to the editorial and review policies, the IJ-ELTS could not include many articles of our colleagues around the globe who showed their interest in the IJ-ELTS by submitting their manuscripts for this issue. However, I would like to invite them to submit their manuscripts to the next issue of the IJ-ELTS by adhering to the policies and manuscript guidelines of the IJ-ELTS.
With Best Regards,
